The opinions expressed by the participants of the entrepreneurs are their own. You read Entrepreneur India, the international media entrepreneur franchise. Stories have defined our world. They have been with us since the beginning of communication, from the walls of the cave to the high fairy tales, told around the fires. They continue to evolve, with the goal of remaining the same: to entertain, share common experiences, teach and transmit traditions. - Francisco Inchauste Storytelling is not just a tool to attract users. It's also a powerful way to teach an organization more about their customers. Most organizations collect huge amounts of data about their users quite well. But this data is often unable to communicate the true frustration and experience of customers. History can do this, and one of the best storytelling tools in the business is the client's travel map. Walking in the shoes of your customers will not only tell you their true stories, but will make you feel their experience. Many organizations are structured around silos functions that tend to have clients dealing between departments seeking services and answers. What the customer is really looking for is one seamless journey through all points of contact. Every time a customer touches an organization, it's a moment of truth. This is the moment when an organization can take a break or experience a customer. Once upon a time, a customer's journey was a linear progression from identifying a need, by reviewing, gathering information, sampling/reviewing and making purchase decisions followed by post-purchase support. But that has changed. Now, the traditional purchase funnel is a complex cobweb across multiple channels, making it extremely difficult to determine when and where the customer was won or lost, or to understand the impact of common ground along the way. How your customers interact with your site or your brand is not a linear process anymore - no matter how much you would like it to be. Getting people to go from point A to point B without jumping the ship or missing a step between them doesn't always happen. You have to take the time to understand as much as you can about what your customers' goals are with knowing not only how they are already moving through your site, but if their journey ends on the ground experience- it can go a long way to keeping them happy... and the growth of your business. Understanding your client and how they interact with your business directly or indirectly is critical in increasing value, repeating the business and longevity of the relationship. To deliver this and be able to create a communication strategy that builds conversation with your customers, it is important to visualize current and planned customer travel and key points of contact through different marketing channels. While the simple exercise of displaying the client's path matters, the ultimate goal is to improve your client's experience by understanding what they are going through in each improve the quality of this experience. At BookMyShow we believe in providing end-to-end experiences from the time the customer interacts with our site until the time when he interacts with our usher on the spot who shows him his place. Technology plays a key role in all our points of contact, whether it's a ticket pick up from the till, in which we just scan the code from the phone or when the viewer enters the place where he flashes his barcode on the turnstile and makes a smooth entrance to the place. We strive to work towards a seamless journey for our viewers. Using the 80/20 approach, start with the most important common ground and ask certain questions: How can I make interaction faster and easier? Can I remove parts of the process to make it faster? Can I empower my staff to make the process easier by solving more issues in real time? Of course, there is much more to the quality of customer interaction than just timeliness, ease, etc., but they are great places to start. While displaying clients' travel is infinitely more difficult than tips received or listed in the public domain, the simple act of starting work with displaying travel will provide you with a vast, dane insight into your customers' experience with your organization. Just remember that a customer's journey of a thousand miles begins with a single step. To truly understand what's going on at each touch point, you need to get feedback from as many stakeholders as possible. This information can then be used to add a quality layer to the travel map. In other words, don't just map what's going on, you can map how you deliver services. Typical tasks: separating yourself from the inside of your company and walking into a client's shoes. Dealing with external touch points, those who is not in your control identifying and dealing with emotional touch points (understanding and measuring the emotional impact of experience is one of the key disciplines any customer experience effort needs to take)Weightage to major against minor points of contact (buying a car test drive against when the customer walks a lot before being greeted by the seller) On stage vs. Off stage (visible to the customer vs. not visible to the customer) Remote vs Face to person and any unique Your competition invests in the experience of customer employees Experience is just as important as the Customer ExperienceCustomer Expectations experience continue to increase. Big Data Becomes MoreSocial Media Service here to stayValue continues to trump the priceCustomers want and expect to be that understanding how the customer feels is just as important as what he says. Understanding a travel hero can make a creative writing class, a literature class, any English class, an easier ace. Even better, chances are you'll enjoy the class immeasurably more when you understand why the hero's travel structure does to meet stories. Christopher Fogler's book The Writer's Journey: A Mythical Structure for Writers draws on the psychology of Carl Jung and Joseph Campbell's mythical research, two beautiful and remarkable sources. Jun suggested that archetypes, which appear in all myths and dreams, represent universal aspects of the human mind. Campbell's work focused on sharing the principles of life embedded in the structure of stories. He discovered that the myths about the heroes of the world are basically the same story, told in in infinitely different ways. Elements of the hero's journey can be found in some of the greatest and oldest stories. There is a good reason they stand the test of time. Students can use their wonderful theories to understand why stories like The Wizard of Oz, E.T. and Star Wars are so loved and so enjoyable to watch over and over again. Vogler knows because he's a longtime consultant to the film industry and, in particular, Disney. We will analyze the journey of the hero piece by piece and show how to use it as a map. In a literature class, this will help you understand the stories you are reading and allow you to contribute more to the discussion of the elements of history in the classroom. In creative writing, it will help you write stories that make sense and satisfy your reader. This translates as higher scores. If you are interested in writing as a career, you absolutely need to understand what makes stories with these elements the most satisfying of all stories. It is important to remember that the journey of the hero is only a guide. Like grammar, once you know and understand the rules, you can break them. No one likes the formula. A hero's journey is not a formula. This gives you an understanding that you need to accept familiar expectations and turn them on their head into creative defiance. The values of a hero's journey are important: symbols of universal life experience, archetypes. We will look at the common structural elements found throughout myths, fairy tales, dreams and movies. It is important to understand that the journey can be outward to a real place (think Indiana Jones), or inside the mind, heart, spirit. In the upcoming lessons We will look at each of the archetypes of Chung and each stage of the journey of the hero Campbell: HeroMentOfThreshold GuardianHeraldShapeshifterShadowTrickster Act One (first quarter of history) Act two (The first quarter of history) Second and Third quarters) Approach to Inmost CaveThe OrdealThe Reward (Sword Capture) Act Third (fourth quarter) Road BackResurrectionReturn 2020 When you learn to be sure you can use it in your to solve all your goals and objectives. However, not many people realize that learning to gain self-confidence is like building muscle- it grows in response to the level of performance required from it. Here I will give you 51 proven ways to overcome the lack of self-confidence and achieve more1. Learn something NewSign for this evening class and enjoy it. Also, read a book (or take an online course) on a topic you've always wanted to learn more about. Learning new things stretches your abilities, keeps your mind active, and certainly improves your confidence in your ability to do new things. Ask your partner or friend what you can do for themIt may be something as simple as helping them with work they don't like or have little time for. By helping them, you will find that you feel better about yourself.3 Hit GymThe physiological effects of going to the gym will leave you feeling great. Countless studies have shown that regular workouts in the gym can boost not only your sense of well-being, but can boost your self-esteem, too.4. Go to the EventRather network than get nervous about your own things, focus on how to help others. Instead of going along with the goal of trying to sell yourself to others, why not change your approach and just go along to see how you can help the people you meet? By doing this, you will come across as calm, self-confident, and someone that people will want to turn to over and over again. Get clear on the things that are important to youIf these things are not in your life, you will need to bring them in, for example, if your daily routine is now as boring as a cookware, but you want it to be fun, then do something about it. Turn data entry into personal speed contests, paper flow into free-to-screen time, and interaction with colleagues into pleasant conversations.6 Remove negativity from your lifeSize a list of things you tolerate and put up with in your life, and then write down how you can remove, minimize, or reduce each one. Personally, I would do this with pen and paper as it feels a little more real and definite than the screen. It's also a good idea to put priority items at the top of the list so you can start solving these first.7. Celebrate your big and small WinsLook for big or small goals that you have completed, and give yourself credit for your role in it. Talk to new peopleGo and talk to someone you don't know. By doing this, you may be pleasantly surprised by what or who you discover. You can also extend this line by breaking out of your normal social situation in the workplace. It will work wonders when you learn to be confident.9 Do something you usually say no toNext once you say yourself out something (invitation party, complex project, etc.) go and do it anyway. It's a great way to enhance personal development. U U The thing every day that makes you SmileThis can be something as simple as sending a thank you letter to a colleague that was helpful to you, or leaving a surprise gift for your partner that they discover when they wake up. It shouldn't be a hard life, and we should all make an effort to keep it easy, loving and fun.11 Give yourself good adviceWatch on patterns of thought that take you to a place where you start second guessing or overthinking. Now imagine that your best friend went through exactly the same thought process and ended up holding back himself - what would you like to tell them? This is known as the Solomon paradox - we often solve other people's problems quite well, but not our own. Call it up and take your own good advice next time. Ask someone on DateIf you are single and have met someone that you are definitely attracted to-go-go and ask them. Even if they turn you away, it will help you learn to be sure that you have been decisive and have made an effort. What's the best thing that you can happen? They could just say yes!13. Write down 20 things that make you feel goodThink this as a thank you list. Typical things you can include are: your partner, your kids, your parents, your pets, etc. I recommend writing this list at least once a month. And most importantly, make sure you give 20 things enough space in your life.14 Stop playing different roles to play different roles and squeezing yourself into boxes based on what you think people expect of you. Be your authentic self, someone who knows what to do and loves what they do. It is easy to find this part of yourself as it is inherent in your hobbies and your close friendship. If you can bring this authenticity into your working life, you will be surprised at how positively others will react to you.15 Develop a positive mindsetLearn to catch yourself every time you tell yourself that you can't have, don't get, or aren't good enough to get what you want. Instead, tell yourself what you can have, will get, and are good enough to get what you want. Thinking is everything. Make sure yours is positive and dynamic.16 Connect yourself with Auto-PilotMake's deliberate decisions about what really matters to you. For example, if you usually work from 9 to 5 but find yourself spending hours getting to and from work, why not negotiate with your boss to mix your hours up a bit? You can also offer a day or two of work from home. Sell this to your boss by reminding them that the time and stress lost to commuting can be neatly transferred to productive working hours.17 Listen carefully to what you tell yourself The next time you come up against risk or challenge, listen to what you say to yourself, and look for a way to improve internal dialogue. If you usually find that your internal dialogue is negative, then break out of it by asking yourself questions such as: What would make it easier? Is there any other way to do this? Can research help? 18. 18. Do you look stupid? It doesn't matter, so don't let it stop you. Whenever we try something new, there's a chance we'll make fools of ourselves. But you'd be a big fool to let that stop you. Instead, laugh at your child's steps and watch your confidence soar as you begin to master your chosen activities.19 Listen to your doubts Sometimes your doubts are there so you know that you need to prepare so that you can use them to your advantage as you move forward. Other times, they just have doubts. The trick is to quickly determine if your doubts are legitimate. If they do, use them to shape your decisions. To illustrate this, imagine that you had a tempting job offer, but you doubt that you are capable of doing this job. Spend a little time analyzing your doubts to see if they reflect reality, or whether they are just negative thoughts that try to hold you back.20 Think back to the time when you did a great JobThink at the time when it felt like a whole bank of switches in your head clicked on the position and you were shooting at all the cylinders. What did you do, and why was it so great? Can you emulate that passion and drive that you had?21. Breaking your BookYou rule may not know, but you've almost certainly got a whole bunch of outdated rules that determine what you do and don't do. These rules limit your thinking and your behavior. It's time to change them. To break this subconscious book of rules and throw it into the fire. Once you've done that, you'll immediately notice how free you feel to make complex and exciting decisions.22 Ask yourself what you got when you LoseDo you get annoyed with yourself because you didn't make the most of something or backed away from the opportunity? First, don't beat yourself up because it's only going to make you feel worse. Instead, be brutally honest and ask yourself what you got from the situation and what you lost on. Based on this win/loss, what other choice can you make next time?23. Don't let people put you downif you if there's someone in your life who puts you down or makes you feel small, you have a duty to do it for yourself to let them know that you expect something different from now on. Trust me, as soon as you contact them, they'll change, and so will you. Inevitably, you will stimulate both your trust and happiness by taking control of your life in this way. Learn how to get out of toxic relationships in this article24. Showing a little bit of real YouRelationships can be difficult. They can also lose their zest and become obsolete. If this happens in your relationship, then it's time to add a little magic to the mix. Try to reveal something interesting about yourself or your past that your partner is not currently When to learn to be confident. You may never have mentioned to them that you played in a rock band and you still have records to prove it! By adding new things to your relationship, you'll deepen the connection and keep keeping Live.25. Be your own HeroRecognize that you are more than a match for any situation you may find yourself in- no matter how tough going gets. We all love movies like Die Hard, where ordinary people are driven to super-ordinary feats. But here's the thing: you can be your own action hero. Whatever the situation, meet his head and overcome it. Keep in mind the classic phrase: Where there will be, there is a way. 26. Don't give up on an instant pay-off! I had to offer you $100 now for a day job tomorrow or $110 for the same job, but I won't pay you for the week, what would you choose? Well, I can't read your mind, but I know that research using a similar question has this found that most people choose an instant, smaller payment on the latter, more payment. It seems that we are wired for instant gratification. However, if you want to be successful in life, always look at the bigger picture. In the example above, if you could only wait another seven days, you would be $10 richer!27. Instead of screaming I deserve better, say: I can be better Too often I hear people complaining about their personal circumstances but refuse to do anything about it. Don't be like them. If something goes wrong, find solutions and implements. Your courage and determination will increase your confidence and help you quickly climb the ladder of success.28 Admit that you WrognIt may not be easy, but you should always be prepared to keep your hands up and change your mind if things go south. Not every idea you will have is winning. The trick is to know when things clearly aren't working. You can try to get them back on track or kill them completely (sometimes that's the best way)29 Trust your instincts We all have our guts and intuitions, but many people prefer to ignore them and rely only on facts, facts and more facts! While this may work for many scenarios, there will be other times when you will need to rely on your instincts.30 Imagine your confident future Of SelfImagine you have visited a successful, confident, attractive and bright version of you from the future, a version of you who are all you hope to be. What do they want to tell you? They can praise your efforts, but they can also criticize your lack of planning and weak goals. Fortunately, if you listen carefully to what they tell you, you will be able to quickly shift gears in your life and become you in the future!31. Ask for helpIt is a common problem. We take on too many responsibilities and end up either burning ourselves or just doing a bad job! The secret is to put the vast majority of your energy and effort into what you do well. Give things you don't do well for those who gift for it. Sometimes the most confident and effective thing to do it is to seek help.32 Be around people who make you feel like you're doing it, spending more time with people who support and encourage you and less time with those who you. At work, don't be destroyed by negative, petty people. Instead, make sure you surround yourself with colleagues who make you laugh and feel good about yourself. 33. Take part in the world Around YouAsk itself this question: What can I participate in what is important to me? Typically, it can be your church, sports club, or even just a weekly get together with your best friend.34 Develop skills to work on things that are important to youWhat can you practice that would radically improve your chances of winning? If you want to climb the corporate ladder, for example, then develop the skills you need to do so. These can include: effective project management skills, powerful presentation abilities, and superior goal-setting skills. Of course, don't forget that imitation by those who have already achieved your goal is one of the quickest and most reliable ways to achieve your goals, too.35 Act Until You Make ItThe body is a mirror for the mind, so moving your body language to a confident state can have unexpected results. It's all about acting. If you want to come across as tough, act tough. If you want to come across as successful, act successfully. And if you want to come across as confident, act confidently. Try to do these things and you will be amazed at the results.36 Click when you want to give up Don't get frustrated or demotivated when you get up to 90% with something you work on. Push through, and you'll see that the last 10% is the place where the magic happens.37 Stop Comparing Yourself to OthersKeep Comparing Yourself to Others? Stop it. If you want to learn how to be sure, don't try to test yourself through comparison- you're just peachy like you. Social media often makes it difficult. Try to move away from your Facebook page for a few days and reconnect with the great things in your own life. You can get started with this guide. Speak when you can do DifferenceSpeak, if there is something you think can be improved, or if you have an idea, you think of the legs. Have you noticed that quiet people at work rarely get shares? It's not that they are incapable or lacking talent, but their abilities are usually overlooked because they don't know how to interact with others or how to sell themselves. Get out of your comfort zone and make sure you're an active player. Speaking at meetings, offering ideas and offering constructive criticism.³⁹ Stop fighting and start taking if there's something you've been trying to figure out for a while, stop trying to figure it out. Accept it for what it is, completely and completely. All life offers endless secrets. If you try to solve them all, you will drive yourself crazy. Instead, let some secrets remain, and keep your mind focused on your goals and dreams.⁴⁰ It's Ok to Be Shy There's Nothing is shy, and that doesn't mean you're not a confident person. If you suffer from shyness, you may think that this is your main weakness. However, introverted people are people Edge in many ways, such as; they are the first speed listeners, they have excellent surveillance skills and they are easier to trust.⁴¹ Cleaning the environment your environment directly affects your self-knowledge. So if you're surrounded by clutter, paperwork, and trash, put the morning aside to clean your stuff and get organized.⁴² Write a list of things that you would like to do Write yourself to list the amazing things you would like to do in your life and start by just looking at the first one or two things that pop up on you. This will help you get started as you learn how to be sure if you currently don't have the means to live your dreams, you can at least start. The best way to do this is to write what you would like to do. These can include interesting things such as traveling the world, learning a new language, or climbing a mountain. Once you've added items to your list, don't stop there. Start exploring and preparing ways to turn your dreams into reality.⁴³ Make your Self-Worth regardless of others' Check Don't make your happiness or self-esteem depend on whether in a relationship or be tested by someone else. While it's hard to admit, we often find ourselves rating our self-esteem by the cost other people put on us. For example, you may have a super-positive boss who is always reassuring and supportive. They make you feel optimistic and confident at all times. However, imagine if they were gone and your new boss was the complete opposite. They are constantly looking for flaws in your work and regularly criticize you. Do you still feel confident in these circumstances? If you say no, you need to re-evaluate your self-esteem because it shouldn't depend on checking others.⁴⁴ Use your strengths, we all have our weaknesses, but they only undermine your confidence if you let them. He never let it hold him back or destroy his trust. Today he is one of the most successful people in the world, with a net worth of about $5 billion.⁴⁵ Complete the to-do list The longer you leave that big thing on your to-do list, the more it will drain you, and the more it will seem. Do it and free yourself. If you have a big goal, break it down into smaller tasks. For example, instead of writing a whole chapter of your book at one turn, how about just writing the first paragraph?⁴⁶ Treat your body Well When to learn to be confident, our body image matters, because if you have a bad relationship with your body, you will not feel confident in yourself. What's one of the first things most of us do when we get up in the morning? We look in the mirror. If we don't like what we see there, then our day starts with a negative self If, on the other hand, we look in the mirror and are proud of our appearance, we start the day off in an optimistic, positive way. If you are you With your body and looks, do something to improve them. Exercise, diet and styling are common ways to improve your body image and your confidence.⁴⁷ Learn to say no Don't say yes to take on the task simply because you don't want to rock the boat. You can politely reject requests that you cannot satisfy without having to create excuses. Saying yes to anything that comes your way can feel like you are being helpful and in demand, in the long run, you will burn yourself. Learn from confident people to look at people you respect who seem confident. Don't copy them, but determine exactly what they do differently, which conveys confidence and what you can learn from it. Watching people is not only fun, but it can be informative, too. Look closely at the successful people you know or those who are interviewed on TV, and over time you will begin to notice the commonalities, beliefs and behaviors they demonstrate.⁴⁹ Follow through on your plans Most people easy to write plans. The hard part, of course, is seeing them through. To stand out from the crowd, make sure you know exactly how to complete your plans. If you need to, write down a step-by-step guide and start following it. This will not only lead you to the completion of your plans, but experiencing progress will also give you a continuous boost to your self-esteem.⁵⁰ Shift focus when you doubt yourself, when you feel the emphasis inside and becomes paralyzed with doubt or fear, switch to focusing outwards on what you can engage with. This is sound advice, as it is very easy to catch up with our thoughts and emotions and be unable to make progress.⁵¹ Never beat yourself up for Failing Life guaranteed there will not always be barrel laughs. Instead, it's a lot more like a roller coaster. There will be ups and downs, so ride them. The art of living is to know how to handle what comes your way. The best way to achieve this goal is to develop an iron core that is unhindered by the topsy-turvy of the outside world. The final Thoughts Here I gave you 51 different ways to start building self-confidence Take action along the way that you are drawn to. For their work, you have to take them into your daily life. Do this and you will begin to feel your confidence soar.
